MEDICINAL.

A SURPRISING CASE.

Mr. Mex. W. Harrs, a prominent lawyer at No. 110; G at. n. w . Weshington, D. C , under date of Jan. 11th, 1890, wrote to the A. B. C. Chemical Co., Richmond, Va., giving the history of a case of skin eruption of 20 years' standing, the result of malignant blood disease. (At this time Mr Harris had been unable to walk for six months) In reply he was directed to use A. B. C. Alterative with the assurance that he would be cured. March 1st, 1890 Mr. Harris again wrote the A. R. C. Chemical Co. in the following words: "The improvement in my case so far is almost miraculous. I am really getting well, and can walk as well as I ever could, and my general health was never better. I sha'l write you from time to time. Meantime you can refer any one to me you desire, and I shall certainly tell them that the A. B. C. Alterative has done me more good in two months than has 20 years' experience with various eminent physicians and all other remedies tried." Under date of April 7th, 1890, Mr. Harris wrote, "I am entirely well.

Entered at the Postofilee, Alexandria, Virginia, as Counting Uncle Sam's Noses.

Nice looking girls in clean, white apront are the busy hands in a machine shop on the third floor of a Ninth street building, in Washington. It is the Census Bureau, and the girls work on those wonderful counting machines which come so near human intelligence in computing the returns sent from all sections of this big country for the census of 1890. At first glance the machines remind one of upright plance. They have handsome oak cases and each one occupies about the same space a piano does. They are, however, eminently practical machines and with their aid some fifteen young ladies count accurately a half million of names a day. It is expected that when the work of counting the census returns really begins there will be seventy or eighty of these machines at work.

The returns from the census districts throughout the country are coming in slowly. There are more than 50,000 of these district and so far only about 2570 districts have sent in the returns. As fast as the returns come in they are counted, although not as rapidly as they will be, as it is necessary to train the young ladies in the use of the machines. In making this count, which is known as the "rough count," the returns for each district are counted twice. After being counted on one machine they are passed over to another, and when the latter count is comple ed the two are compared, and if there are discrepancies necessary cor rections are mads. Following this method, if the total population of the country is 60, 000,000, there will be counted in the Census Office an equivalent to 120,000 000 names.

The machines, which are the invention of Mr. Heilerith, and supplement his tubulating machines, are very simple. A key board, resembling that of a type-writer, is at the right of the operator. Each key has a number from one to twenty. The operator. number from one to twenty. The operator has a pile of census schedules at her left side, and as she turns the schedules over she notes the figures which indicate the number of members in each family enumerated in that schedule. If there are five members in a family she strikes the key marked five. When a key is struck an electric connection is established with the hands on a dial in the frame work in front of the operator.

That dial is marked No. 5, which means it records the number of families consisting of five persons. Each time the No. 5 key is struck number 5 dial records one. When the count is completed the recorded number on each dial is multiplied by the number of the dial, the results added up and the total number of individ-uals in that district is ascertained. If the same result is obtained by a different opera-tor, then it is concluded that the count is correct. It is expected that by the use of these machines the results of the census will be known much sooner than by any other known method.

IT MADE HIS EYPS WATER.-In a letter from Bucharest, under date of June 13, Colonel A. Loudonn Snowden, United States Minister to Greece, Servia and Roumania, gives the following account of an experience in the far East: "On my way here I stopped over in Constantinople for a few days, visiting the objects of interest in that remarkable city. The Sulten designated an aid-de-camp who conducted us to such places of especial interest as the general visitor is not expected or permitted to see. The treasure-house of the Sultan, which contains the accumulations of centuries, is simply indescribable. Here are stored diamonds, emeralds, pearls and other precious stones, such as exist in no other place in the world, and in quantities beyond calcula tion as to value. The palaces on the Bos phorous are marvels of beauty and splen-
